Dear Mr. Director-General, Mr. Independent Chair of Council:

As you know, on the 14th of March the UN Secretary General underscored his serious concerns regarding implications for the global food system as a result of the current conflict in Ukraine. The SG noted “this war goes far beyond Ukraine. It is also an assault on the world’s most vulnerable people and countries...Now their breadbasket is being bombed... food, fuel, and fertilizer prices are skyrocketing, supply chains are being disrupted... and this is hitting the poorest the hardest.”

Given the FAO’s analysis to date regarding the significant impacts of the crisis on Ukrainian and Russian agriculture, commodities and other input markets, and skyrocketing global food prices, all affecting the food security of millions in dozens of countries worldwide, it is both necessary and appropriate for FAO to convene its members in an Emergency Special Session of the Council. This conflict severely aggravates the already considerable food security challenges exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic, including already-high price inflation of food and agricultural inputs. This Special Session is therefore necessary for the Council, as part of its functions under FAO General Rules, Rule XXIV, paragraph 1 (b), to advise on any issues pertaining to the world food and agriculture situation, especially any such issues of an urgent nature which would call for action by the Conference, Regional Conferences, the Committees referred to in Article V, paragraph 6 of the Constitution, or the Director-General.

In consequence, we, the undersigned 19 FAO Council Member Nations, as well as 25 Council observers, pursuant to FAO General Rules, Rule XXV, paragraph 1, hereby request the urgent convening of a one-day Special Session of the FAO Council to address the implications on world food security and agriculture arising from the aggression by the Russian Federation against Ukraine as a single agenda item.

We take note of and welcome FAO's ongoing work to provide initial analysis to members, including through the technical briefing announced for March 25. The convening of a Special Session will allow more thorough examination and discussion of these matters, afford an opportunity for members and FAO to discuss the Organization's cooperation and collaboration with other relevant actors, including the Rome-based agencies, international financial institutions, the Agricultural Market Information System, and other partners as appropriate, and provide an opportunity ahead of the regularly scheduled June Council for the Organization to consider how the implementation of the Strategic Framework (2022-2031), Programme of Work and Budget (2022-2023), resource prioritization, and longer-term resilience planning are being affected by this crisis.

We request that the proposal in annex to this letter, containing a provisional agenda and draft decision please be circulated as documentation for the Emergency Special Session, to be convened at the earliest convenience, respecting the minimum two-week notice, and no later than April 8.

Sincerely,

H.E. Khaled Ahmad Zekriya

[#]th Emergency Special Session of the FAO Council
[Rome, XX April 2022]
Proposal of Actions by FAO in Relation to the Implications on World Food Security and Agriculture from the Russian aggression against Ukraine

Executive Summary

The United Nations General Assembly in its resolution adopted on 2 March 2022 at its 11th emergency special session, deplored the aggression by the Russian Federation against Ukraine and noted its negative impact driving increased food insecurity globally, as Ukraine, Russia, and the Black Sea region are one of the world's most important areas for grain and agricultural exports, and at a time when millions of people are already facing famine, the immediate risk of famine, or are experiencing severe food insecurity in several regions of the world. The conflict is having a major impact on FAO member states – especially developing countries – which were already grappling with high food price inflation, supply chain interruptions, and other challenges resulting from two years of a global pandemic.

The UN Secretary General has called on the international community to “do everything possible to avert a hurricane of hunger and a meltdown of the global food system.” He also stressed that the war is hitting the poorest the hardest around the globe. The situation in Ukraine is exacerbating world hunger – in North Africa, sub-Saharan Africa, Southeast Asia, and the Middle East in particular. It is negatively affecting the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal of reaching Zero Hunger by 2030, for which FAO is the custodial lead agency.

Urgent and decisive action by the FAO is therefore needed.

Across the UN system, the UN General Assembly, the UN Security Council, the Human Rights Council and other specialized agencies, such as UNESCO, IAEA, IMO, ITU, ICAO and UNWTO, have held or are holding special, emergency or dedicated sessions of their Governing Bodies to consider the matter. Other international or regional organizations (inter alia OSCE, OECD, Council of the Baltic Sea States, African Union) have reacted, addressing the matters within their mandate arising from the crisis, as a matter of urgency.

Suggested action by Council

The Council is invited to adopt the following decision:

“The Council,

Endorsed and reaffirmed the Resolution adopted on 2 March 2022 by the United Nations General Assembly at its 11th emergency special session (A/RES/ES-11/1);

Affirmed that the aggression against Ukraine by the Russian Federation, with the involvement of Belarus, is in violation of the objectives and purposes of the Organization as set out in the Preamble of the Constitution and of the obligations accepted by the Russian Federation and Belarus as Members of the Organization, and demanding the immediate cessation of the use of force against Ukraine, including the targeting of civilians and civilian food supply and agricultural infrastructure and the further aggravation of world food insecurity;

Expressed the gravest concern about the impact of the conflict on increased food insecurity globally, as Ukraine, the Russian Federation, and the region are one of the world’s most important areas for grain, oilseed, and other agriculture exports, when millions of people are already facing hunger or the immediate risk of hunger or are experiencing severe food insecurity in several regions of the world;

Stressed the role of FAO, in coordination and collaboration with other United Nations entities and relevant bodies, especially the Rome-based agencies and international financial institutions, to address within its mandate the consequences of the conflict within Ukraine and on world food security and agriculture;

Requested the Director-General:

- to leverage FAO's role as a knowledge institution to closely monitor the implications on world food security and agriculture, including through the regular, comprehensive data analysis on the effects of the conflict on food systems,
- to review and make recommendations on the conflict's implications for FAO's implementation of its Strategic Framework (2022-2031) and Programme of Work and Budget (2022-2023),

- to develop immediate, medium-term, and longer-term plans to address the global food security impacts of the conflict in Ukraine, including emergency response, recovery assistance, and resilience building in food systems, and
- to keep members notified in this regard through regular briefings, consultations, and reporting to the FAO Governing Bodies;

Decided to add this matter to the agenda of the next regular session of the FAO Council in June 2022.
