10. USEFUL INFORMATION ABOUT OMAN

Oman

37. Oman, officially called “the Sultanate of Oman” is an Arab state in southwest Asia, situated on the southeast coast of the Arabian Peninsula, 309,500sq Km with 3,165 Km of coastline. It has a strategically important position at the mouth of Persian Gulf. The form of government is the monarchy. With the advent of 1970 the country came the dawn of a modern renaissance, with the beginning of the prosperous era of His Majesty Sultan Qaboos bin Said. Oman is one of the most developed and stable countries in the Arab world. In 1981 the sultanate became a founding member of the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council.

38. A vast gravel desert plain covers most of central Oman, with mountain ranges along the north (Al Hajar Mountains) and southeast coast, where the country’s main cities are also located: the capital city Muscat, Sohar and Sur in the north, and Salalah in the south. Oman’s climate is hot and dry in the interior and humid along the coast. The peninsula of Musandam, which has a strategic location on the strait of Hormuz, is separated from the rest of Oman by the United Arab Emirates. The series of small towns known collectively as Dibba are the gateway to the Musandam peninsula on land and the fishing villages of Musandam by sea, with boats available for hire at Khasab for trips into the Musandam peninsula by sea. The central desert of Oman is an important source of meteorites for scientific analysis.

39. The country has a racially mixed population, a heritage of its imperial history. Many Omani people originate from East Africa or Baluchistan. According to the 2011 census, the total population was 2,846 million. 43% of the population is under the age of 15. About 50% of the population lives in Muscat and the Batinah coastal plain northwest of the capital, about 200,000 live in the Dhofar (southern) region, and about 30,000 live in the remote Musandam Peninsula on the Strait of Hormuz.

40. Desert shrub and desert grass, common to southern Arabia, are found, but vegetation is sparse in interior plateau, which is largely gravel desert. The greater monsoon rainfall in Dhofar and the mountains make the growth there more luxuriant during summer; coconut palms grow plentifully in the coastal plains of Dhofar and frankincense is produced in the hills, with abundant oleander and varieties of acacia. The Al Hajar Mountains are a distinct ecoregion, the highest points in eastern Arabia with wildlife including the Arabian tahr.

Climate

41. Oman has a hot climate and very little rainfall. Annual rainfall in Muscat averages 100 mm, falling mostly in January. The Dhofar Mountains area receives seasonal rainfall (from late June to late September) as a result of the monsoon winds from the Indian Ocean saturated with cool moisture and heavy fog. The mountain areas receive more plentiful rainfall on the higher parts of the Jabal Akhdar exceeding 400 mm in some parts of the coast, particularly near the island of Masirah. The climate generally is very hot, with temperatures reaching around 50º C in the hot season, from May to September.

42. Drought and limited rainfall contribute to shortages in the nation’s water supply. Given the fact that Oman has limited renewable water resources the maintainance an adequate supply of water for agricultural and domestic use is one of Oman’s most pressing environmental challenge; 94% of available water is used in farming and 2% for industrial activity, with the majority being sourced from fossil water in the desert areas and spring water in hills and mountains. Drinking water is available throughout the country, either piped or delivered. The soil in coastal plains, such as Salalah, have shown increased levels of salinity, due to over exploitation of ground water and encroachment by seawater in the water table. Pollution of beaches and other coastal areas by oil tanker traffic through the Strait of Hormuz and Gulf of Oman is also a persistent risk. The following are are the average temperature and humidity for the month of September in Muscat:

Language

43. Arabic is the official language of Oman. English is widely spoken and it has been currently adopted as a second language. Almost all signs and writings appear in both Arabic and English. Endangered languages in Oman include Bathari, Harsusi, Hobyot, Jibbali, Khojki, Kumzari, Mehri and Zidgali. Oman was the first Persian Gulf state to have German taught as second language. Due to the influx of Pakistani migrants during the late 1980s and 1990s, a significant number of its population speaks also Urdu.

Customs

44. Omanis are friendly people and are very helpful to tourists. In turn, tourists should respect the ways and traditions of the Omani people. The usual rules of respect when traveling in a Muslim country should be followed in Oman. Non-Muslims are permitted to bring two litres of alcohol into the country at Seeb International Airport only. You are not allowed to bring alcohol into the country in private cars at land. Stay quiet about the sultan, who has done a lot to develop the nation in recent history. He is expected to be held in extreme respect. It is very impolite for foreigners to dress in tight or revealing clothing even if the locals rarely say anything. For women it is preferable to avoid smoking in public places.

Currency

45. The currency unit of Oman is the Omani Ryal (OMR), it is divided into 1000 Baissa. The Omani Ryal comes in coins of 5, 10, 25, 50 Baissa, and in notes of 1, 5, 10, 20, 50 Ryal. The April 2013 currency exchange rate is approximately USD 1 = 0.39 OMR and EUR 1 = 0.50 OMR. The currency exchange rate fluctuates regularly. Please check for the latest exchange rates.

46. Major credit cards (Visa, MasterCard, American Express, Diners Club) and traveller’s cheques in main currencies are generally accepted in leading hotels, restaurants, department stores and several large stores. Traveller’s cheques and bank notes in all major currencies may be exchanged at all commercial banks, majority of the hotels and foreign exchange counters. ATMs are also available.

Time

47. Oman time is:

- Standard time zone: UTC/GMT +4 hours
- No daylight saving time in 2013
- Time zone abbreviation: GST - Gulf Standard Time

Since May 2013, the working days in Oman are from Sunday to Thursday.

Taxes and tipping

48. A government value added tax of 10 percent is charged. It is commonly accepted in big cities to add a charge of 5 percent for service in restaurants.

49. Tipping is not compulsory but highly appreciated, usually at a level of no more than 20 percent.

Electricity

50. Electrical power in Oman is mostly 220-240 volts. Electrical sockets (outlets) in the Sultanate of Oman are the "Type G " British BS-1363 type. If your appliance's plug doesn't match the shape of these sockets, you will need a travel plug adapter in order to plug in.
