

HIGHLIGHTS

Contribution of terrestrial animal source food to healthy diets for improved nutrition and health outcomes - An evidence and policy overview on the state of knowledge and gaps

Terrestrial animal source food (TASF) provides higher-quality proteins than other foods, so higher dietary intakes of TASF can have positive effects on nutrition, health and cognition. This publication focuses on the downstream impacts of TASF consumption as part of a healthy diet and provides a robust systematic review of the evidence for its contribution to health and nutrition outcomes.

Understanding and Quantifying Mountain Tourism

Mountain tourism is driven by the human desire to experience nature in unique settings, and tourism is a lifeline for many communities in these regions. This study addresses the current lack of relevant data for measuring the volume of visitors to mountains. It also identifies trends and provides a set of recommendations to advance the measurement of mountain tourism.
