

Agricultural risk management strategy, policy and mainstreaming

© PARM/Carlos Tomas Lara Acosta

Responding to risk requires developing strategies which combine different risk management tools as well as policies and programs to address constraints and broader issues that create the context in which risks occur. This course will present the role that major stakeholders in the agrifood system can play to design Agriculture Risk Management (ARM) strategies and make them effective and sustainable.

 2 hours of learning, depending on learning needs

 Available in English

Digital badge

You will learn about

- Describing an ARM strategy at farm, local and national level
- Comparing and selecting risk management tools to create ARM plans/strategies
- Explaining the roles and responsibilities of all the major stakeholders in formulating and implementing ARM strategies
- Understanding how information system, capacity development and mainstreaming can make ARM strategies effective and sustainable

Who is the course for?

The target audience for this course includes:

- Farmers, farm management advisors, farmer organizations and communities;
- Policymakers and planners, and other government officials; and
- Service and input providers and other intermediaries dealing with agricultural risk management services.

Key partners

The course was developed by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) and the Platform for Agricultural Risk Management (PARM) which is hosted by the International Fund for Agriculture Development (IFAD). The course is the result of the close collaboration with the European Commission (EC), Agence Française de Développement (AFD), Italian Directorate-General for Development Cooperation, KfW Development Bank, BMZ, and the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD).

FAO elearning Academy

This course is available through the FAO elearning Academy. Please visit the Academy and browse our extensive catalogue in multiple languages. Register once to access over 100 titles. All courses are available as a global public good for free.

How to access the course

1. Go to the e-learning Academy: elearning.fao.org
2. Register and log-in with your user name and password

© FAO, 2020
CA8518EN/1/04.20

[😊] Registration is fast and easy

This publication has been produced with the assistance of the European Union. The contents of this publication are the sole responsibility of FAO and can in no way be taken to reflect the views of the European Union.